ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

The Global Internship Conference is a forum dedicated to advancing the knowledge of academic work placement and experiential education.

This includes, but is not limited to, professionals and researchers who work in the field or seek to learn more about internships, academic work placement, co-operative education, teaching and volunteering. As a platform for dialogue, and a vehicle for action, the GIC brings together colleagues to discuss and advance best practices as well as develop and examine a research agenda for global internships.

Be part of the conversation at the 2020 Global Internship Conference in Vancouver Canada! This year’s theme, Internship Ability: Accessibility, Scalability, Sustainability reflects the important of diversity and sustainable impact on Vancouver. The GIC will be co-hosted with Simon Fraser University.

"Great conference! Learned a lot from presentations by academics, internship providers, and others working in the area of student internships. The pre-conference and post-conference activities were well thought through and organized. I’d definitely try to make it for future GICs! Thanks to the organizers – you did a great job!"

Priscilla Pang, Singapore University of Social Sciences
